Premiere Executive Suites eases the stress of long-term stays

Executives on the road, employees on temporary assignment and individuals relocating for a new job all have one thing in common – the stress of being away from what they find comfortable and familiar.

They are often left living out of a suitcase for weeks or even months, incurring for themselves and their organizations the costs of extended hotel stays. Full-service suite hotels often become a home away from home, but the hotel lifestyle can quickly grow tiresome and options for this type of accommodation are typically limited to the downtown core.

These corporate travellers don't need another hotel. They need a more economical and flexible housing alternative. This is where Premiere Executive Suites Ottawa can help.

Premiere Executive Suites Ottawa has 70 corporate housing units available at almost 30 locations across Ottawa, from Kanata to downtown. Options range from upscale townhomes, to condo flats and suites in a full-service hotel setting. All units are fully furnished and feature housekeeping services, free wireless Internet, flat-screen televisions, VIP cable television and modern interiors.

"No one else in Ottawa has our variety of locations and type of accommodation to place clients close to where they are working," said Jennifer Cross, Managing Partner.

But serving the corporate housing market is about much more than flat screen televisions and decor. Whether clients are on temporary assignment or in the midst of a permanent relocation, they need to feel that their needs are being considered and cared for, Cross said.

Her team has helped clients through it all: red-eye arrivals in the dead of night, last-minute contract extensions, and delays in closing the purchase of a house.

"Our clients have a lot invested and are already under stress," Cross said. "We pay attention to the details that matter and work to ensure their experience is as comfortable and convenient as possible."
